

'LEAK' WINNINGS UNDER SCRUTINY

Justice Department Eager To Learn Success from Advance Information.

Attorney General Palmer is expected to take complete charge of the Supreme Court "leak" investigation upon his return to the city Thursday. Department officials are most interested in determining the exact financial success that attended the stock market transactions of the alleged "leak" to have used "advance information" for speculative purposes. The department has already been mentioned in connection with the case. The department is interested also in determining the amount of money in the claim of the men under investigation that they had no advance information of the decisions of the court, but simply figured out the decisions through a process of deduction. It is probable that the records of a number of Wall Street brokerage houses will be investigated to discover the extent of the profitability of this process of deduction. The department of Justice lawyers have been given a statement concerning the case, and the members of the Supreme Court are content to permit the department's inquiry to be completed before they take any action to punish the guilty.

Christmas Cheer to Last Twelve Months in Fourteen Homes of Unfortunates—If Total of $10,949 Is Raised by Society.

One thousand dollars was subscribed to the Fourteen Christmas Opportunities of the Associated Charities yesterday, the first day the opportunities were open. Officials believe that two of them will be closed today.

An earnest appeal is made that the same swift pace of progress be continued until every one of the fourteen opportunities is closed and the needy families involved provided for throughout the coming year.

Gifts again are assured by the society that every dollar they give will be credited to the opportunity which they select. The only exception is in the case where the full amount has been subscribed for a particular contribution is received. In those instances the money given is assigned to some other opportunity and in the acknowledgment sent to the giver the number of the opportunity to which the donation is applied is stated on the receipt.

Everything told in the stories of these families is true except the names. Christian names of the children have been changed and no surnames are being published. While the stories are real they involve no money so that one may read in vain in an effort to identify the particular family whose need is described.

'BUDDY' BLAKE MYSTERY GROWS

Mother Pronounced Insane, How Boy Met Death May Never Be Found Out.

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 16.—Whether 5-year-old "Buddy" Blake tumbled from the South Cambridge Avenue Pier to his death in the breakers or was thrown overboard by his mother, Mrs. Esther Blake, who was pronounced insane today by two medical experts, may remain a mystery.

Mrs. Blake, who is under arrest in Atlantic City Hospital, charged with the murder of her 5-year-old son, has modified the original story of the incidents leading to the boy's disappearance and death, admitting to Dr. Brewster, the mental expert retained by the police, and Dr. Souder, the coroner's physician, that her first story of the kidnapping of the boy by two negroes may have been a delusion.

She said she remembered "Buddy" tearing himself away from her as they were walking along the board walk and disappearing in the darkness and fog. She called for him, she said, fearing he might run down the pier and fall overboard, but there came no answer; all she could hear was the sound of fog bells and the shrieking of sirens out beyond the breakers. Then she became unconscious, she said, and when she came to sometime afterward, something seemed to snap in her brain and she became obsessed with the idea or delusion that she had been held up by two negroes who had run off with "Buddy."

The physicians declared Mrs. Blake to be suffering from recurrent or periodical delusional insanity. Today, while she was telling the story of the boy's disappearance, her mind seemed to be perfectly clear and alert and there was no sign of derangement. Dr. Souder, however, believes her to be an incurable paranoiac. The physicians announced that in going over Mrs. Blake's past history they had discovered that she had been a sufferer from delusions for several years.

None of the woman's stories, they say, can be accepted without corroboration and this is manifestly impossible, there being no eye witnesses of the tragedy, so far as known. Therefore the mystery may never be solved and Mrs. Blake may never be brought to trial for the boy's murder.

Cullen, member of the committee, said yesterday the committee will propose establishment of naturalization courts in all large cities; a method of requiring all young Americans to take an oath of allegiance upon becoming 21 years of age; abolition of the office of Commissioner General of Immigration; appointment of an assistant secretary of the Department of Labor to supervise the immigration affairs; mandatory legislation providing for more rigid inspection at Ellis Island, where 80 per cent of all aliens enter the country; a military immigration pool on the Canadian and Mexican borders, and more drastic punishment for ship owners allowing alien members of crews to desert.

D. C. Episcopalians Report Drive a Success

Indications that the quota of $204,000, set for Washington and vicinity, in the nation-wide campaign of the Episcopal Church to raise a fund of $2,000,000 will be far exceeded, continued to pour into the local headquarters of the Campaign Committee through yesterday and last night.

Market Chickens Go Beyond Reach Of Even Dealers

Chickens soared beyond the reach of customers yesterday at Center market. They were so high that they could not be sold and dealers themselves experienced difficulty in getting them.

The chickens, two of them, adjourned on whirling pinions to the roofs of buildings on Louisiana avenue, inaugurating a merry chase which eventually involved owners, sympathetic dealers, customers and passerby.

For fifteen minutes the situation was tense as chickens and dealers clustered over the slippery shingles. Fruitless grapes served only to spur the pursuers on.

Finally both birds displayed the white feather and were brought triumphantly back to their cages. Sad to relate, however, the prospective customers for whom the fowls were released are still being sought by a hopeful dealer.

property in the District compared favorably to other communities, Mr. Sisson declared that Kentucky realized more on the tax on dogs than was paid on intangible property for a number of years.

Mr. Sisson, who is chairman of the District subcommittee on the Appropriations Committee, declared that if the half and half plan was not adopted by the people and a desire for re-election prevents them from rendering a fair tax assessment.

Mr. Sisson contended that while the District gets just as much protection as State governments and exercises all the functions of a State or county government, investigation shows that upon two-thirds valuation assessment, the people of the District pay only half as much tax as other cities of like size, including the county and State tax.

Mr. Sisson reiterated the charge made by Herbert J. Browne, that President Wilson has saved Capt. Daniel Smith, 26th Infantry, from execution for alleged retreat from the enemy at Binerville, France, in September, 1918, the War Department announced today. The President ordered Capt. Smith restored to duty.

Many wealthy people moved to Washington to avail themselves of the low taxation. He refused to cite names.

Mr. Worthington, who preceded the Mississippi Representative, charged that repeal of the half and half plan would revert conditions in the District to the "horrible" state of affairs that existed prior to 1878, when Congress passed the organic act, known as the half and half plan, and the only means of rescuing the National Capital from its position as a disgrace to the nation.

If a change in fiscal relations between the District and the Federal government is to be made, Mr. Worthington insisted, it should be made only as to the proportion of the money to be paid by the Federal and District governments rather than by an indefinite arrangement which would permit the District to raise what it could and Congress appropriate whatever it saw fit to create a sufficient amount to carry on the affairs of the District government.
